Thank you Mr. Sharpe for your email. I need to get in touch with the curriculum committee for our activity courses to discuss the proposal with them. Once I have done that, I will get back to you with a time and place to meet.

Best,

Subject: Rifle Marksmanship proposal

Dr. Banville ,

As per our phone conversation last afternoon, I am writing to inquire about a possible meeting with you, myself and Michael Johns, General Manager of the NRA Range. We are interested in exploring options about a possible addition to the GMU course catalog called Rifle Marksmanship which would essentially be a mirror image of the class Pistol Marksmanship that has been conducted at our facility over the past few years.

We would very much appreciate a brief meeting and would be happy to come to campus to sit down and go over our proposal. I understand that there may be a few questions and concerns about this course and we would like to assure the faculty that the material would be conducted at full discretion of the department.

If available, Mr. Johns and myself can meet with you Monday - Friday, any time that is convenient for you. If any steps need to be taken on my end, please let me know and I shall make every effort to adhere to the process.

I thank you very much for your time, and I appreciate you speaking with me yesterday .

A handwritten signature in black ink. It begins with the initials 'M.' followed by a large, stylized 'S' that loops back. The signature ends with a horizontal line that has a small, illegible mark at its end.
